STOCK PRICES DECLINE. New York, Nov. 1.—Prices in to-ay's stock market continued to decline. but there were indications that the cur-rent reaction was nearing an end. rent reaction was nearing an end.

Buying on the belief that the liquidation had run its course imparted strength to a number of shares at the spening, but speculators for the decline launched a heavy attack against steel and exican Oil shares, which again unsettled the list.

The raid against steels was based on the comparatively small carnings of the United States Steel corporation for September, which totalled only $7.727.

721 as against $11.324.053 the month before, but bull interests pointed out that the decrease could be explained by the fact that September was a short month, that freight car shortages and embargoes had held up shipments at the mills and that price advances to counterbalance the September wage increase did not become effective until October 1.

Loss of 10 per cent in winter wheat territory would mean 4,500,600 acres, and according to the exports responsible for the estimate, the cutlook for the winter crop is the poorest for some last ten years: winter crop is the poorest for some years both as regards acreage and con-dition. Previous to amouncement of this information, the wheat market had been exhibiting a downward price tendency largely as a result of rains which planted, although too late to remeas much loss of acreage.

Predictions of enlarged European dramand for wheat and rive had considerable additional effect as a bullish factor in the wheat market, and so too, did frost reports from Argentina. A by Woodbridge Orchards from V statement from President Markham of Statemen
